Division of Superconducting Magnet Science and Technology
Institute of Electrical Engineering, Chinese Academy of Sciences

Prof. Qiuliang Wang is the head of Division of Superconducting Magnet Science and Technology, Institute of Electrical Engineering, Chinese Academy of Sciences. He obtained his Ph.D. degree from Institute of Electrical Engineering, Chinese Academy of Sciences, in 1994, and then pursued his Post-doc at Faculty of Engineering, Kyushu University from 1994-1996. He has worked on the application of superconducting magnet for 30 years and is the author of over 300 scientific publications in peer-reviewed journals. Now, his research area focuses on: complex structure of the high field superconducting magnet science, special electrical equipment, NMR/MRI superconducting magnet system, medical intervention, Space magnet and accelerator magnet technology, large-scale computing software and electromagnetic technology.
